Elsie Fowler complained about drug activity in the Princeton Park apartment complex. She said residents had talked to the manager and the police department, which advised an officer would have to witness the crime. Several Council members responded, commending Ms. Fowler for her courage, and stressing the importance of continuing to call the police every time the activity is seen. She was advised that a representative of the drug task force was present and over time, a case can be built. Telephone numbers for the drug task force, as well as the method to report concerns through the city's website, were announced. References were made to Federal guidelines concerning a requirement to provide residents a safe environment.
